

World Health Summit – Social Media Netiquette

We welcome an engaged dialogue on the World Health Summit social media pages on LinkedIn, X, Facebook, and Instagram and look forward to your comments and posts. In order to create an open, respectful, and productive environment, we ask that you follow the rules outlined below.

We reserve the right to delete and/or report posts that are in breach of these rules.

Respectful Conversation

We want the dialogue to be fair, so please ensure that your tone is respectful and courteous at all times. Treat others as you would like to be treated.

Discuss the topic at hand without attacking other users or anyone else personally. Everyone has a right to their own opinion, so please do not try to force your views on others.

We will delete or report insults and posts that discriminate or defame other users or social groups based on their religion, origin, nationality, disability, income, sexual orientation, age or gender. The same applies to posts that contain vulgar, abusive or hate speech, or posts that violate the rights of third parties.

Posts that spread disinformation will also not be tolerated.

Stay on Topic

Please ensure that your comments are relevant to the original post and avoid posting content that has little or nothing to do with it. We reserve the right to delete or report such posts.

Use of Quotations

To quote correctly, the right source must be provided. You must give a source or author that can be verified by other users.

Avoiding Spam

Posts that take the form of chain letters, junk mail or spam will be deleted. We also reserve the right to ban and/or report users who distribute such content.

Misuse of the World Health Summit social media sites to advertise websites or services or to sell goods or services, either commercially or privately, is not permitted. Such posts will be deleted or reported.

Do not post content, information or other material that violates any law.

User Responsibility

All users are responsible for their own content. The World Health Summit assumes no responsibility for the content of users' posts.

In the case of copyrighted material, the rights of use remain with the author. However, by posting on our social media pages, authors give the World Health Summit permission to leave a post permanently on the pages and to archive it. This permission cannot be revoked. The World Health Summit also reserves the right to delete, edit, move or close any topic and post.

Final Responsibility Rests With the Operator

WHS Foundation GmbH as the operator of the World Health Summit accounts will not tolerate violations of these commenting guidelines. We reserve the right to report and delete any post or comment at any time and for any reason, and to report, mute or ban its author.

By interacting with the World Health Summit on its social media pages, you accept these guidelines.

General laws and regulations apply.

Violations will result in your exclusion from the discussion and, in extreme cases, may result in legal action.

Further Information

For more information about platform-specific rules and terms of use, please refer to the following resources:

LinkedIn Professional Community Policies

Facebook's Terms of Service

The X Rules

Instagram Community Guidelines

Thank you for your understanding. We hope you enjoy the discussions on our social media sites.