ZEIT für [FORSCHUNG]

GLOBALE GESUNDHEIT

Ein gesundes Leben für alle Menschen jeden Alters – dies ist eines der 17 Nachhaltigkeitsziele der Agenda 2030 für nachhaltige Entwicklung. Wie kann diese Vision wahr werden?

www.zeitfuerrd.de/forschung

→ Gemeinsam Gesundheit gestalten – effizient, gerecht und nachhaltig

Special edition of ZEIT für Forschung incl. advertorial with Axel R. Pries in DIE ZEIT 40/2023.

→ Alle medizinische Forschung ist Global Health Forschung

Prof. Dr. Axel Radlach Pries, Mediziner und Professor für Physiologie, führt seit 2021 als Präsident das World Health Summit in die Zukunft. Zuvor hat er die Geschicke der Charité als Dekan geleitet.

Diese Globalisierung medizinischer Herausforderungen ähnelt der Situation im internationalen Handel. Güter aus anderen Weltregionen werden nicht mehr in „Kolonialverträgen“ angeboten, sondern füllen Regale aller Branchen. Entsprechend ist alle medizinische Forschung Global Health Forschung, und hier ist Deutschland sehr gut aufgestellt. Zusätzlich entstehen Institute mit einem besonderen Global Health Fokus, etwa das 2022 gegründete „Charité Center for Global Health“. Diese arbeiten weltweit in Teams mit regionalen Partnern zusammen, um medizinische Ansätze für lokale gesellschaftliche und ökologische Bedingungen zu entwickeln und umzusetzen. Der World Health Summit fördert diese Umsetzung von Global Health Forschung, indem er internationale Wissenschaft mit Politik, Industrie und Zivilgesellschaft zusammenbringt.

Die Herausforderungen der globalen Gesundheit spiegeln eine aktuelle geographische Krise, die durch zwei Gefahren gekennzeichnet ist: den Neo-Imperialismus, wie in China und Russland, und den Neo-Nationalismus, der auch in den USA und Europa wächst. Deutschland und die EU müssen mit anderen demokratischen Ländern diesen Entwicklungen ein multilaterales Konzept entgegenstellen. In einer fairen und handlungsfähigen Zusammenarbeit müssen Aufgaben, die einzelne Nationen nicht lösen können, durch multilaterale Kooperation und Organisationen angegangen werden. Das muss so geschehen, dass es zögerliche Staaten überzeugt – keine einfache Aufgabe, aber alternativlos.

Die Herausforderungen der globalen Gesundheit sind komplex und vielfältig. Sie erfordern eine globale Zusammenarbeit aller Nationen und Völker. Die Weltgesundheitsorganisation (WHO) spielt eine zentrale Rolle in der globalen Gesundheitspolitik. Die WHO ist ein internationaler Gesundheitsorganisation, die die Gesundheit der Weltbevölkerung zu verbessern und zu schützen. Die WHO ist ein internationaler Gesundheitsorganisation, die die Gesundheit der Weltbevölkerung zu verbessern und zu schützen. Die WHO ist ein internationaler Gesundheitsorganisation, die die Gesundheit der Weltbevölkerung zu verbessern und zu schützen.

→ Einfache Frage, diffizile Antwort: Globale Gesundheit – was ist das eigentlich?

Die Weltgesundheitsorganisation (WHO) definiert globale Gesundheit als den Zustand der Gesundheit der Weltbevölkerung. Dies umfasst die physische, mentale und soziale Gesundheit aller Menschen. Die WHO ist ein internationaler Gesundheitsorganisation, die die Gesundheit der Weltbevölkerung zu verbessern und zu schützen.
